Summary

I help companies and organizations go from an idea to a product that actually runs, in Arabic from the first line.

Product developer and digital project manager based in Saudi Arabia. Since 2024 I've been building SaaS products and internal systems for the Saudi and Gulf market, and I take them end to end: product, backend, payments, deployment.

Most of what I've built runs in production today: platforms and systems that teams open every morning. I'm also studying Data Science at Prince Musaid Bin Abdulrahman University.

Selected work

MPM All development, as part of my job

A full operating system for a building-materials company

One internal system for all of it: a dashboard of live figures, quotations and cost sheets, a materials catalogue, an AI pricing assistant, contracts, purchasing, an approval flow, and reports.
